Certificate of Official Registration- Legal Status and name change for Oslo and Akershus University College of Applied Sciences

The Royal Norwegian Ministry of Education and Research hereby confirms that Oslo and Akershus University College of Applied Sciences (HIOA) has received status as a State University, effective from January 12th 2018.

HiOA has undergone a name change effective from January 12th. The new name of the institution is:

In Norwegian: OsloMet — storbyuniversitetet

In English: OsloMet—Oslo Metropolitan University

Shortname in Norwegian and English: OsloMet

We confirm that OsloMet will keep the same legal status in the national Norwegian Higher education system and keep the same organization number in the national registry of enterprises, 997 058 925.

OsloMet's legal basis and governing document remains the Act relating to Universities and University Colleges. As set forth in the Act, OsloMet is a non-profit organization conducting education and research with recognized programmes for the Bachelor's, Master's degrees and doctoral programmes, receiving funds from the Ministry of Education and Research following decisions on budget allocations in the Norwegian National Assembly.
